

From a recent Consumer Reports article:

"If you shop online, you can protect yourself from ID theft by using a disposable credit card. Major credit-card companies, such as Citibank, Discover Card, and MBNA, issue one-time-usage numbers for online purchases so you can charge your real card without electronically revealing your actual account number or password. Call your card issuer for information."